Dorothy Joan Harris (Canadian). – 1972-3? – 2010. – 1 archival box, 12.5 cm.

Biographical sketch: Dorothy Joan Harris was born in Kobe, Japan on February 14, 1931. Her Canadian mother and English father were educators and moved with her family to St Catherines, Ontario in 1938. With a degree in modern languages from the University of Toronto, which she completed in 1955, she taught in France and Japan. She settled in Toronto, Ontario in 1954, married Alan Harris in 1955, and worked as an editor with Copp Clark Publishers from 1955-1961. From 1977-1996 she worked as a public library assistant in Toronto. She began writing for her children Kim and Doug and still lives in Toronto.

The mouse series of books was inspired by her young children. Harris has authored several informational novels for teens, such as Don’t Call Me Sugarbaby, about a teen coming to terms with her diabetic status and Even If It Kills Me about anorexia nervosa.

Awards:

1999 - Ragazzi Prize from the Bologna Book fair (Best Non-Fiction book) for her contribution to Too Young to Fight (Stoddart, Toronto, 1999).

2005-2006 – Nomination, Chocolate Lily Award for A Very Unusual Dog.

Custodial history: Gift of Dorothy Joan Harris
Scope and content: This gift of material represents the literary archive of Dorothy Joan Harris to spring 2010. The current gift contains biographical sketches, manuscripts and papers for works published from 1973.

Arrangement: The archivist has grouped folders by title, ordered by date of creation. The original location of each file is provided. Date order is complicated by the fact that drafts and proofs are dated both by “day/month/year” and by “month/day/year.” In cases of ambiguity, the archivist has assumed “day/month/year.”

Restrictions on access: No restrictions in place
Series and sub-series:
